Honor-A List-Recapitulation. From Our Special Correspondent.

CAMBRIDGE, July 22, 1865. Connected with the recent commemoration festival at Harvard College is the question of a "Permanent Memorial" to the dead and surviving heroes from the University, who have served the Nation in the War for the Union. At the meeting of Graduates held in May last, a Committee consisting of Messrs. Charles G. Loring, Chair man, James Walker, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry B. Rogers, Robert W. Hooper, Samuel Eliot, Charles E Norton, Martin Brimmer, and H. H. Coelldge, was appointed, to consider the subject and report at a subsequent day. The report of this Committee was made at a meeting held on the 14th inst. and has been printed in pamphlet form and circulated among the Alumni.

The Committee say, "that, although a diversity of opinion originally existed, and may to some extent continne to exist, a large majority, after prolonged discusdon, are of opinion that a Memorial Hall is the most desirable form, not only as lest embracing all the purposes of any more monument, but as securing, at the same time, the combination with them of numerous sacred and interesting past and fature associations, of which no other form can possibly admit.

"The only remaining modes suggested were those of mural tablets in the entrance or upon the walls of the College Chapel, or of a monument of stone or of marble In the College grounds."

They then discuss the objections raised to their pro posed plan at some length, from which it will be seen that the contemplated memorial as suggested by the Committee is to be a "Memorial Hall;" the building to be sufficiently large to contain an auditorium or theater, wherein all the public gatherings of the University can take place, and also to embrace a dining ball, with a culinary department connected therewith; the latter two features to be entirely distinct from the auditorium. The real memorials for the dead to consist of mural tablets or busts or paintings, as their friends may see fit to place therein. The objections that it is incongraous, that the expense will be too large, and that it will be a long time before it can be completed, are considered. The statement is also made that Mr. Samue Bachelder, a citizen of Cambridge, and an Alumnus of Harvard, has proffered a suitable lot of land at the corner of Garden and Mason-sts., in close proximity to the College, and almost under the shadow of the clu beneath whose bran hes Gen. Washington first took charge of the American Army, July 3, 1775. (Est passant, the tablet pleed the e to commemorate this act, reads " Under this tree, &c.") Mr. Charles Sanders, deceased, lately of Cambridge, has also bequeathed lands and money to the amount of $40,000 for the erec tion of a hall for the Alumni and the celebration of the College festivals. By combining the two gifts and the two objects, it is thought that the whole can be completed for the sum of $150,000, of which $100,000 re mein to be raised. Two thousand of the Alumni can be communicated with, and an average subscription of $59 each will secure the desired result. The Committee do not tell us whether the Memorial Hall is to be the anditorium or the dining half, but say the arrangement of the memorials should be under the charge of a proper

The report came up for discussion at the meeting of the Alumai on Commencement day. That all were in favor of some memorial there could be no doubt. But there were other objections raised as to its proposed

We do not want it mixed up with reminiscences of old lenefactors of the College or with its future patrons. We do not wish to combine the two our respect and affection for our hero martyrs. erect a building as proposed, as the the usual method doing business by so large a body, would require so much time that some of us might never live to see its completion. We want, say a monument of granite t be placed at Mount Auburn or in the College grounds. erected at an expense which will make it a thing to be accomplished at once.

The matter was discussed at some length, and ended by its being referred to a Committee of 50. It is to be hoped, however, that some early action will be taken by the Committee to ascertain the real views of the Alumni is reference to the subject.

The Roll of Honor of Harvard is one of which not only the University, but the country, can well be proud. I have made a digest of the more important facts, and they are given below. The record of the deaths shows casualties among those who were officers to have been unusually large. This can be accounted for by the chivalrio spirit which education gives, which, as Mr. Emerson puts it, may say, "My first instinct is to ciates, forbid-I go to the front." Found ever in the hottest of the fight, fading with unwavering trust amid the roar of battle or in the desperate charge, they have discharged well the duty self-imposed. They have given up their lives for us and for their country. Shall not we who are spared crown them with the undving and their memories, so that in the years to come the student at Harvard may find inspiration and canobling thoughts in the contemplation of those sons of Aim Mater who gave their lives for their country?

Let the memorial be one that will be as enduring as aught of earth can be. Let it be always accessible, n only to persons connected with the College, but to all who come to do homage to those who have aided in fighting the good fight. Around the presenct of Haryard cluster historic memories with which the deeds of the past four years may well be blended. The shadowy chieftains of Corcord, of Lexington, of Bunker Hill, the group that gathered aroun ! George Washington under the historic clins, the soldiers of the army that once assembled on you common, all throng arounour noble army of mar yes with " Bravely done, worthy sons of worthy sires." The spi it of '76 was reawakened in 1860. Of the four classes then in College, 191 students enlisted, of whom 39 have perished. Of the remainder nearly all have wen distinction, and all have done their duty. But to elaborate further would be to go beyond the limits of a lot er to the covers of a vol-Therefore I will invite the attention of your renders to the names of the General Officers and of the Colonels:
